

Concrete Hollow Block Making

It may surprise you to know that to make concrete blocks for building construction you don't need huge expensive automatic machinery.

We help each supported community to make concrete hollow-blocks for construction, by providing hollow-block making equipment, initial supplies, training, and basic business skills. This enables them to not only provide housing for their community but also develop a small business, making and supplying blocks to others. This income from sales, is used to purchase further supplies and to buy food and other much needed items.

One brick at a time provides a home for each family, a community building and the start of a business and a brighter future. One brick at a time, and they become self-reliant with great self-respect.

Recipients' Outcomes

Hearts and Hands Community Development has assisted several communities with a donated 'Hollow-Block Making machine', education in its use, as well as budgeting skills training enable the community to develop a long-term self-fulfilling existence.

Here's an example of what we term as successful assistance and support: one community, in just 12 short months, achieved the construction of three (3) community buildings and housing for their entire community!

With our support and encouragement, one of the communities went on to assist another fifteen (15) nearby struggling communities. Thus, raising themselves out of despair. A hand up given with respect and support, is the answer, not the traditional $ hand out charity model.
